

The Annapolis Observer is IRO's weekly update on happenings in Annapolis and highlights the progress of key bills of interest to WSSC Water, as well as provide timely updates and calendar of important dates.

A Note from WSSC Water's Intergovernmental Relations Office

Legislators continue to assess the state's financial outlook following the latest revenue projections from the Board of Revenue Estimates. The board recently lowered projections by $280 million over two years, citing expected federal budget cuts and job losses that could cost Maryland 30,000 federal jobs and $3 billion in wages by 2025.

Governor Wes Moore's administration is working to address these challenges with a budget proposal that includes tax increases on high earners, modest reductions for 60% of taxpayers, and the elimination of itemized deductions. Additionally, lawmakers are considering a 2.5% sales tax on certain business-to-business services, a measure that has drawn opposition from Republican legislators who argue for spending cuts over tax hikes.

The Maryland General Assembly is also quickly approaching Crossover Day on March 17, a critical deadline in the legislative process. Bills that have not passed at least one chamber - either the House or the Senate - by this date face significant hurdles to becoming law. Lawmakers are working to advance key legislation before the deadline, and we are closely monitoring the progress of proposed bills that could impact our work and the communities we serve.

As we continue to track budget negotiations and their implications, IRO remains committed to advocating for legislation that impacts our work. We cover a variety of subject matters and focus on legislation that helps fulfill our Smart One Water Mission and analyze the impact of state and federal legislation on WSSC Water. We ensure all communities thrive by ethically delivering safe, reliable, and sustainable water and wastewater services. In every home, every business, we make everything possible by ensuring access to dependable and safe water for everyday life. We will provide updates on legislative developments impacting our communities and workforce.
